

100 bikes project

A $75 donation will provide a child in Vietnam a new bike & helmet, which will greatly improve their livelihood. A bike will decrease the amount of time commuting to school, allow for easier transport of food and materials, and will improve the overall quality of life for an entire family.

The "100 Bikes Project" was created by International Children Assistance Network (ICAN), a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization. Since 2006 the iCAN Dream program has provided financial aid to more than 500 orphans and disadvantaged children in Vietnam to assist in continuing their education.

Khac-Quan Nguyen is the project coordinator and has created an ambitious goal to raise enough money for 100 bikes for children in Vietnam.
